Disposable fashion – the first plan

On Monday at 8:15, Maya arrived at the school library. The group planned to compare two ideas. The first steps worked well, but the situation changed because one important note was missing. Two pupils suggested different answers. Before choosing, the group checked the available information and spoke to the organiser. It then agreed to check the official information and make one clear plan. As a result, everyone received the correct information. Afterwards, Maya recorded the change and one reason for it. This helped the next group understand both the action and the decision behind it.

1. Who is the main person?
2. On which day does the event happen?

Disposable fashion – what changed

On Wednesday at 15:30, Ben arrived at a local museum. The group planned to write a short report. The first steps worked well, but the situation changed because the group had too little time. Two pupils suggested different answers. Before choosing, the group checked the available information and spoke to the organiser. It then agreed to complete the most important part first. As a result, nobody was excluded. Afterwards, Ben recorded the change and one reason for it. This helped the next group understand both the action and the decision behind it.
