An open letter to the mayor – the first plan

On Friday at 14:00, Grace arrived at the sports hall. The group planned to check a route. The first steps worked well, but the situation changed because a delivery arrived late. Two pupils suggested different answers. Before choosing, the group checked the available information and spoke to the organiser. It then agreed to use available materials and change one activity. As a result, the class understood the result. Afterwards, Grace recorded the change and one reason for it. This helped the next group understand both the action and the decision behind it.

An open letter to the mayor – what changed

On Monday at 12:20, Sam arrived at the town centre. The group planned to plan a class activity. The first steps worked well, but the situation changed because a piece of equipment did not work. Two pupils suggested different answers. Before choosing, the group checked the available information and spoke to the organiser. It then agreed to borrow safe equipment after checking it. As a result, the team avoided a second problem. Afterwards, Sam recorded the change and one reason for it. This helped the next group understand both the action and the decision behind it.
